छाप

THE IMPRINTS OF CRAFTS

PUBLISHED & PRODUCED - Year 2013

Madhya Pradesh Hastshilp Evam Hathkargha
Vikas Nigam Ltd. (MPHSVN)
Hamidia Road, Bhopal - 462001
Madhya Pradesh, INDIA

RESEARCHED, WRITTEN,
PHOTOGRAPHED & DESIGNED BY

Gaatha Handicrafts
NDBI, NID, Ahmedabad - 380007
Gujarat, INDIA
www.gaatha.com

Edited by Devika Seth

© All rights reserved under international copyright convention. No part of the book may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means; electronic or mechanical, including photocopy or recording, without prior permission in writing from the Madhya Pradesh Hastshilp Evan Hathkargha Vikas Nigam Ltd., Bhopal - INDIA.

BAGH — Dhar District

Bagh Prints

N22.358 | E74.789
WESTERN M.P

This craft traveled to the plateaus of Madhya Pradesh as the Khatris of Sindh migrated southwards. Traditionally known as 'thappa chapai', the print became more popular by its new name. 'Bagh' not only derives its name from the native river 'Bagini' but also owes the vibrance of its colors to its water. The block printers of Bagh observed and applied the inspirations from their surroundings to evolve these prints, while keeping their original techniques intact. Though initially it catered to the needs of the native tribes, Bagh with its boundless possibilities of patterns and natural colors has now grown popular across the world. Some of the contemporary products of Bagh are bedspreads, table linen, scarves, sarees and cushion covers.